

Cutting Edge Leaders Series

with Dr Eva Bilhuber Galli

Workshop 1: Innovation Leadership - it starts with you

Become a catalyst for learning and growth in your organisation

Is your organisation fit for growth? Today, many organisations and leaders are not ready for the growth demanded by the fast-paced reality of economic unpredictability. Disruptive technologies, global competition and workforce specialisation have increased global interconnectivity of value chains, accelerating the pace of innovation and change. In such an environment, how does one inspire a team to renew continually and how can organisational settings be shaped to create innovation? It starts with the leader's mindset and openness to learning and change. In this session we draw on the lines of leadership and innovation and discuss key considerations that foster innovation in organisations.

Date: Friday, 11 August 2017

Time: 08:00 - 13:00

Fee: N$ 890.00

Workshop 2: Creating Partnership Value

How to build a collaborative workforce culture

Markets are collaboration! This is the case more than ever in our globally connected business world. While managing collaboration is nothing new, its relevance and degree has changed dramatically over time. In recent years, the acceleration of digitisation and globalisation has triggered new forms of interactive business models, the so-called platform models, such as Uber, Airbnb, Alibaba and Co. By bringing consumers, producers and other stakeholders together for creating peer-to-peer value, these business models are gaining impressive market share. They all have one thing in common: mutually-beneficial business relationships that have become a key corporate asset. In this session we will focus on collaboration as a strategic asset and discuss what leaders and managers need to consider in order to inspire a partnership company culture.

Date: Tuesday, 15 August 2017

Time: 12:00 - 17:00

Fee: N$ 890.00

Workshop 3: From Captain to Coach

Broaden your leadership skills

In an age of rapid shifts in technologies, business models and demographics, as well as the way organisations work, change is the "new normal". What is required is the adoption of a transformational leadership approach and rethinking of the role of a manager from that of instructor to coach. Research on today's employees suggests that coaching is essential in carving goal achievement and productivity; it is also valued because of the dual role of addressing organisational performance and helping employees reach their own career goals. In this interactive workshop session, we will discuss basic coaching principles and techniques that can be easily applied within the workplace.

Date: Wednesday, 16 August 2017

Time: 12:00 - 17:00

Fee: N$ 890.00

About the Presenter

Dr Eva Bilhuber Galli is the Managing Director of Human Facts AG Switzerland and works as a management consultant and executive coach at Zurich, St Gallen. She is particularly interested in the creation of social capital in companies, cross-unit collaboration and transformation processes. She worked for over 10 years in executive functions in HRD and received her PhD in strategic management at the University of St Gallen.

Register by: Monday, 31 July 2017

Venue: Harold Pupkewitz Graduate School of Business (HP-GSB)

Special Price: Register before Thursday, 20 July 2017 and get 10% off or attend two or more workshops at N$ 780.00 each

Enquiries

Cynthia Kauami

T: +264 61 207 2242

E: ckauami@nust.na

